The Doors That Never Sleep

Fire door compliance in student living, around the clock

7:30AM

Morning Rush

Students flood out for 9am lectures. Bags on backs, coffee in hand, and fire doors swinging constantly. In the space of 30 minutes, your building's busiest access points are tested hundreds of times.

1:00PM

Afternoon Activity

Between lectures, the building comes alive. Students head to the gym, couriers arrive with parcels, and doors swing open and shut in a steady rhythm. Every entry point is in use, and every fire door is being tested.

6:30PM

Evening Return

The return wave begins. Students pour back through the front doors, bags dropped, kitchens filling with the smell of cooking, corridors alive with conversation. The building shifts from quiet to buzzing in minutes.

11:30PM

Nightlife, The Chaos Begins

Students spill out into the night, taxis line the street, takeaway bags swing from every hand, and the front door barely stops moving. For every group heading out, another is arriving back. Your fire doors are working overtime.

2:45AM

Late Night, Still Moving

The building never truly sleeps. Late-night returners, night-shift staff, and restless residents mean fire doors are still swinging well into the early hours. Every opening is a compliance moment.
